Sonim's new XP3 phone takes rugged to an entirely new level, engineered specifically for customers who work and/or play in extreme environments and appreciate the value of dependable tools that perform as promised.

Sonim's line-up of "Built For Life" tough mobile phones has received excellent reviews in print and online publications around the world. Maxim UK described the XP1 as a phone that "thrives in the most demanding situations", Playboy subjected the phone to a number of torture tests but was unable to break it. Wired declared that the XP1 is "Shock-proof, water-proof, and generally whack-proof", Australia's Herald Sun described the XP1 as "the answer to the prayers of people who work and play outdoors", and CNET said "The Sonim XP1 eats daily abuse like a piece of cake...."

The XP3 builds on that strong success. The XP3 is waterproof and includes a web browser — it's the finest phone we've ever created — built in response to customer requests for specific features and functionalities.
